Scott Carter Named President of Spire's Missouri Utilities

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 14, 2018 /PRNewswire/ -- Spire has named Scott Carter president of Missouri utilities. Scott will oversee Spire's natural gas utilities in both eastern and western Missouri with a focus on company growth and expanding natural gas service.

"Spire is committed to pouring our energy into a great customer experience and to pursuing opportunities to reach new homes and businesses," said Steve Lindsey, CEO of distribution operations and gas utilities for Spire. "Scott's experience with state regulatory environments and utility operations make him the perfect leader to take Missouri to the next level."

Scott has been with Spire since 2016 serving as chief operating officer of distribution operations. Before joining Spire, he was the senior vice president of commercial operations and chief regulatory officer at AGL Resources Inc., where he worked for 15 years in various operational and leadership roles.

About Spire
At Spire Inc. (NYSE: SR) we believe energy exists to help make people's lives better. It's a simple idea, but one that's at the heart of our company. Every day we serve 1.7 million homes and businesses, making us the fifth-largest publicly traded natural gas company in the country. We help families and business owners fuel their daily lives through our gas utilities serving Alabama, Mississippi and Missouri. Our non-utility businesses include Spire Marketing, Spire STL Pipeline and Spire Storage. We are committed to transforming our business and pursuing growth through 1) growing organically, 2) investing in infrastructure, 3) acquiring and integrating, and 4) innovation and technology.
