Owens Corning Awarded as a "2021 National Preferred Partner" by David Weekley Homes

8/31/2021

TOLEDO, Ohio--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- The Insulation business of Owens Corning (NYSE: OC) has earned the National Preferred Partner Award from David Weekley Homes' 17th annual National Preferred Partner Survey. This is the ninth consecutive year Owens Corning Insulation, together with its network of contractors and distributors, has been recognized for its innovation, quality, customer service and performance by the privately-held U.S. homebuilder.

"In a dynamic year for our industry, our team has remained resilient and committed to delivering innovation and helping our customers win in the market," said Mike Swift, vice president and general manager of North American Building Insulation, Owens Corning. "We are honored to once again to receive this distinction from David Weekley Homes, which highlights our strong partnerships throughout the channel."

The National Preferred Partner Survey is part of the homebuilder's comprehensive supplier evaluation, measuring all trade partners and their channel partners for world-class excellence. Owens Corning ranked among the top 12 companies to earn the National Preferred Partner status from a total of 140 companies evaluated.

"It is our honor to name Owens Corning as an award winner, as the company has continued to deliver innovation and the solutions needed to surpass the expectations of our homebuyers," said John Schiegg, vice president of supply chain services for David Weekley Homes. "We have been fortunate to have exceptional National Preferred Partners who provided their products and expertise during an unprecedented time, helping us navigate these obstacles to continue delivering a high-quality product."

Consistent with the company's focus on innovation, Owens Corning Insulation recently announced the launch of PINK Next Gen™ Fiberglas™ insulation with advanced fiber technology. The product is designed to meet building codes and help homebuilders and contractors in the post-pandemic environment through safer, faster install.
