ADI Earns 14 CE Pro 2026 Quest for Quality Awards Across Manufacturer and Distributor Categories

2026-03-31

ADI, a leading distributor and solution provider of security, AV, and smart living products, today announced it has won 14 CE Pro Quest for Quality Awards in the 2026 program across both manufacturer and distributor categories. The awards are determined through an open-ended survey of industry professionals, recognizing companies that deliver exceptional service, support, and programs across the custom integration industry.

This year's results demonstrate continued momentum for ADI, which increased its total recognitions from 12 awards in 2025 to 14 in 2026, while also earning more top-tier Platinum awards overall. The company expanded its presence in manufacturer categories and improved placements in key operational areas including website performance and shipping policies, underscoring ADI's continued investment in tools, programs, and support designed to help integrators operate more efficiently.

"These recognitions highlight the ongoing investments we've made to strengthen the programs, tools, and support integrators rely on," said Cynthia Menna, VP and General Manager, AV at ADI. "They reflect the trust our customers place in us and the work our teams do every day to support their success. We remain committed to continually enhancing the resources that help integrators operate efficiently and deliver exceptional results, and we're grateful to the CE Pro readers who inspire us to keep evolving."

Now in its 16th year, the Quest for Quality Awards program honors the services and people that make an impact across the industry. Votes are cast by industry professionals through a series of open-ended questionnaires designed to measure success across a number of industry-related categories.
