Rithm Capital Appoints Ann DeVries as Head of Investor Relations

2026-09-17

Experienced IR leader to support the continued growth of Rithm's asset management business and its operating companies

NEW YORK--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- Rithm Capital Corp. (NYSE: RITM, "Rithm" or the "Company"), a global alternative asset manager, today announced that Ann DeVries has joined the firm as Head of Investor Relations.

In this role, Ms. DeVries will lead the development and execution of Rithm's investor relations strategy, overseeing engagement with current and prospective shareholders and the sell-side analyst community. Working closely with senior leadership and teams across the platform, she will communicate the Company's business model, financial performance and long-term growth priorities.

"Ann's appointment reflects the continued momentum of our integrated platform and the growing interest we are seeing from shareholders and third-party investors in understanding how our asset management business and operating companies work together," said Michael Nierenberg, Chief Executive Officer of Rithm. "Her strong experience leading IR functions and deep relationship network will be instrumental as we strengthen our dialogue with the investment community and articulate how Rithm's integrated platform and owner-operator advantage supports our strategy and growth. We are excited to add yet another seasoned professional to our extraordinary leadership team."

Ms. DeVries brings more than 25 years of experience across investor relations and strategic finance. Most recently, she served as Head of Strategic Finance and Investor Relations at Banc of California (NYSE: BANC), where she led the bank's investor relations efforts and partnered with senior management on strategic initiatives, financial analysis, and corporate planning. Before that, she served as Head of Investor Relations at Bakkt (NYSE: BKKT), where she built the investor relations function from the ground up in its first years as a public company.

Earlier in her career, Ms. DeVries spent 16 years at JPMorgan Chase, serving in a variety of senior roles across investment banking, corporate finance, and investor relations.

“I am thrilled to join Rithm at this exciting inflection point. The firm’s fast-growing asset management business, combined with its scaled operating companies, sets it apart from other alternative managers,” said Ms. DeVries. “I look forward to helping the investment community understand how Rithm’s capabilities reinforce one another, deepening the firm’s relationships with existing partners, and contributing to its next chapter of growth.”
